

Sparklemuffin is a peacock spider, named after the bright blue and red stripes on its abdomen.

The story of Herobrine

Short Story

Dhairya Gupta

AIS Gurugram 43, VI B

For seven long years, Good Steve practiced every single day, and trained all the animals who promised to join him in the battle against humanity. Starting a new chapter of his life, he decided to adopt a new name for himself - Herobrine. With each passing day, he became confident that the day was not far when he would attack Evil Steve and humanity and make them repent for their wrong deeds. He created distinct kinds of swords, armours, bows and arrows. Finally, the day had come when his entire army was ready with all the ammunitions to rage a war. He along with his warriors reached Earth and attacked Evil

Steve and the human army. The battle continued; both the opponent armies were strong until Evil Steve whipped out new technology into war field and gradually wounded one-third of Herobrine's army. Evil Steve seemed to be faster, had more resources and special ammunitions. Soon enough, the humans were able to harm Herobrine and two-third of his army; Herobrine was annoyed. Seeing how all his animals were suffering and wounded, he decided to call it a truce, thinking to himself that he will be back one day. "No, we mustn't call it a truce," cried Bringer, his second in command; "We need to destroy the humans!" "We will, one day. We need to be more prepared to face the technological weapons these humans are using. Look around, more than half of our army has been lost!" said Herobrine. Obeying his call, Bringer along with the remaining army returned to the Nether with the will to go back one day and win. Years passed and all the animals along with Herobrine kept working harder and harder. But Bringer wasn't ready to be patient. He wanted to defeat humans and he wanted to do it now, and if Herobrine wasn't going to help him, he decided to do it himself. As Herobrine was practicing his sword technique, one of the animals ran up to him and said, "Herobrine, look! I found this letter at the edge of the jungle and it says that Evil Steve has Bringer in their capture!" "What?" asked Herobrine, not believing a word.

Years passed and all the animals along with Herobrine kept working harder and harder.

It said that Bringer had tried to attack Evil Steve and his castle all by himself and was captured, and if Herobrine wanted to see him alive, he must return to the human land and surrender. Quickly Herobrine and the animals prepared themselves for another war. Herobrine couldn't let them have Bringer. He and his army reached the human land, ready for the fight. Putting in all their might, they tried their best to win. They had seen humans and their weapons in action, and knew how to avoid them. They knew the weak points and waited until the humans' weapons started running out of ammunitions to go in attack mode. As Herobrine and his army finally attacked, Evil Steve and humans started fearing for their life. One by one, the humans dropped on the ground, unconscious and defeated. Herobrine and his army won the very victory they had been dreaming for years. They had avenged all their animal friends. The battle was over, and the good triumphed over the evil. GF

So, what did you learn today?
A new word: Ammunition
Meaning: The material fired from any weapon

Idli dhokla

Ingredients

Gram flour .....	1 1/2 cup
Semolina .....	2 tbs
Ginger paste .....	1/2 tsp
Green chili .....	4
Turmeric .....	1/2 tsp
Sugar .....	2 tbs
Asafoetida .....	a pinch
Curd .....	1/4 cup
Oil .....	4 tbs
Water .....	1 1/4 cup
Eno .....	1/2 tsp
Mustard .....	1 tbs
Cumin .....	1/2 cup
Sesame seeds .....	1 tbs
Curry leaves .....	5-6
Lemon juice .....	1 tsp
Coconut (grated) .....	2 tbs
Coriander (chopped) .....	2 tbs

Procedure

- In a large bowl, take gram flour, semolina, ginger paste and one finely chopped chili. Mix them together.
- Add turmeric, sugar, asafoetida, curd, oil, salt and water to it.
- Whisk and mix all the ingredients together properly. Once done, add Eno to the mix.
- Keep mixing the batter until it turns frothy.
- Now, grease the idli plate with oil and pour the batter into it.
- Place the plate in the steamer and steam it for about 12 mins.
- Meanwhile, in a pan, add mustard, cumin, sesame seeds, asafoetida, chili and curry leaves. Stir them together.
- Now add in water, sugar, salt, and lemon juice.
- Bring the mixture to a boil and ensure that everything is mixed well together.
- Once the idli dhoklas are done, take them out of the plate and pour this prepared mixture on top and let them soak it in.
- Garnish your idli dhoklas with grated coconut and coriander. Get ready to devour them!

POEM

Let's save them

Shivika, AIS Saket, VII

Animals are a natural treasure
 Their importance has no measure
 Don't hunt them to make wears
 Look out for them, for they are rare

Imagine a world without them
 A universe in complete mayhem
 They have the right to the planet
 And their lives are not for granted

In the future, they might disappear
 And that future, we have to fear
 We can see their population shrink
 Let's save them or they'll go extinct! GF
